

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The invention provides a high-quality efficient print system of load diffusion type, capable of printing document data described with a structured description

- 5 language based on page concept.

A printing apparatus transmits, to a server, information for identifying the document data and physical layout information required for determining the layout of the document data, and the server converts the document

- 10 data into document data described with the structured description language capable of page layout based on the received information.

0987529.11501